As it did in the OECD is conducting a survey of donors and recipients on their strategies and practices in trade capacity building. The fall is due mainly to the global food and fuel price shock, which has weighed particularly on growth in oil-importing countries, and to the global financial market turmoil, which has slowed global growth and demand for Africa's exports.

Thereafter, we identify a couple of policy implications. May 30 May 30, Governments in sub-Saharan Africa need to strengthen crucial elements of capacity to mitigate such risks. Palgrave Macmillan UK.
