According to Gary and Ruth Namie, as well as Tracy, et al. I had failed in my 20s and early 30s when I attempted to go back to college before I was ready, but I still knew I had it in me to do. Teach kids how to become more resilient and their confidence grows and on their own - they will learn to overcome adversity.

I could no longer go to school without breaking down in sobs, I got sick every time. None of the questions about whether what happened was right. So, what can we do to tackle these attitudes, rewrite these statistics, and show the next generation that change is possible and there is room for men and boys to find greater fulfillment and happiness? Many of us resolve to avoid alcohol - at least for the month of January.

I just want to have some peace. Depending on your child's age, you might want to bring up the topic of gender expression and sexual orientation. You can encourage parents to let you know if their child has been involved in a bullying situation prior to camp and ask them how it was alleviated.
