and whatnot were decidedly mixed. If so then they might have failed like the threaded nut in the hydraulic press: instead of the air inside the columns being compressed hydraulically the air may be compressed thermally. They were not able to be adequately fireproofed with existing technologies and yet insurance companies still ok'ed the structural concept. This line, once completed, could be extended to China. All of this stuff took money to fund. Otherwise, how much longer must we endure this monstrous deception by a degenerate bunch of crooks who are destroying the world?
